THE STORY OF THE GYNN

On a very dark night on 11th June, 1833, one of the sudden summer storms, which sometimes strike our coast, erupted and whipped up the sea to boiling point causing eleven ships to founder.

A Scottish schooner named Lerwick was saved that night by a lighted candle placed in the window of The Gynn by the Landlord's daughter. In his despair the Skipper of the Lerwick turned the ship towards the light and succeeded in beaching it so far into the fissure in the cliffs that the bowsprit almost touched the door of the inn.

The sea was much calmer here and the crew of nine were able to struggle ashore and seek refuge.

The captain of the Lerwick later married the Landlord's daughter.
